The much talked of letter of the President to Robert J. Walker, while Governor of Kanting Committee, and annexed is the document WASHINGTON, July 12, 1857

My DEAR SIR:- I duly received your letter of 28th ultimo, on Friday last, and read it to the Cabi et then in session. The views which it contamed were not calculated to assure as of your success, though we did not despond. Hence you may judge with whit satisfaction an account of the proceedings of the National Domocratic Convention held at Lecompton on the 3d inst., was receired. The point on which your own succes-depends is the submession of the Constitution to the people of Kansas, and by the people 1 mean, and I have no doubt you mean, the netual bona fide residents, who have been long enough in the Territory to identify themselves with its fate. The Legislature determined three months as the period to entitle individuals to vote incoragainst the Constitution. It appears to me t is would be reasonable. On the question of submitting the Constitution to the hona lide residents of Kansae, I am willing to stand or fall. It is the prinopular sovereignty, and the principle at the the Convention adopt this principle, all will be cettl d harmoniously, and, with the blessing of Providence, you will return trumpbantly from our archeuis, important, and responsible station The structures of the Georgia and Mississippi Conventions will then poss away and be fergotten. It is strange that people at a dis tance, who have no practical acquaintance with the emidition of Kansas, should in dertake to be into my chock. I have consented to take six or eight ocratic party there to maintain the Constitution and laws, composed of Pro Slavery and Free State Democrats, and if the majority should be against where persons desirous of entering pupils will find Sheary, to obtain such constitutional provision as will secure the rights of slaveholders in Missonri and other States, and maintain all laws guarding the just rights of the South. abridging any personal right, to impairing or interposing with any right of property, it has power unit is bound by every obligation of duty to exercise it in the ensement of laws necessary for the protection of every right of life, liberty, or property. What are the personal rights of the cuizen, as ordined, or rather reserved, under the Constitution? They are more specifically enumerated in the several amen liments to that instrument. They are more specifically enamerated in the several amen liments to that instrument. They are, the right to bear arms; the right of free speech and a free press; the right to free conscience; the right peaceably to assemble and petition for redress of grievances; the right to he se ure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures; the right of trial by jury; the right to be confronted with his accusers and witness against unreasonable searches and seizures; the right of trial by jury; the right to be confronted with his accusers and witness against him m all criminal proceedings; not to be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due poocess of law. These, sir, are the highest rights of the Americar citizen. They are rights and the right for the Americar citizen. They are rights the most of the Americar citizen. They are rights deemed too stered for abridgment or interference by any power m this Government. They are expressly reserved, and stand above its power to intend the first libration of the United States. The Supreme Court have already decided that Congress has no power, either the charge and when in the clarky or indirectly or indirectly or indirectly or power.

I intend to vote for this bill, or one like it that the distinguished gentleman from Tennessee has for its object the complete and specify cradi occupies a different relation to this measure from the action of the evil.

During this decision peculiar positions have been assumed, and peculiar arguments have been advinced in detense of these positions.

One is, that Congress has no pawer under the Constitution to passe such an act; and to vote for this left ways be to surrender a vital principle.

this hill, and will resist, by his vote, its passage in this House.

Then, has Congress power, under the Constitution, to pass this bill? I maintain that it has. The same provision in the Constitution that gives to the Federal Government the right to acquire territory, invests it with power, subject to the limitations of the Constitution, to pass laws for its government. The exercise of this power must extend only to the enactive at of such laws as are necessary for the protection of the citizen winding go mote the Territories, in his rights of person and his rights of property. There is no way to accomplish this, except to pass laws for the punishment of citizes and offences against these rights, and that is what is proposed in this bill. While Congress has no power to pass any law abridging any personal right, or impairing or instantiant of congress constructions. white Congress has no move to best any time tween mustand and wife, it has power to registare abridging any personal right, to impairing or interposing with any right of moperty, it has power, matter and slave. The marriage relation, by every law of every Christian country, has been defined to be a civil contract he, we can one room and one woman; and for either party to violate this contract or relation, by marrying again during the existence of this legal relation, the tract of molation was a wrong within itself, and was made a crime by law, runishable with fines and peral-ties. This has been the law, I repeat, of every eivilized Christian State for near two thousand

This legal marriage relation establishes personal rights and personal interest which no legis-bative tribanal under our form of government, nor the parties ahemselves at their more will and phrasure, can divest or destroy. The wife owes obedience to the husband and the husband protection to the wife, and both owe protection and journed until Monday. core to their children. This relation lies at the very fundation of our whole social system. It regulates our laws of descent; it determines the tenure of estates. It is the 1 undation rock of our civil and religious labric. And, sir, when we undertake to punish a crime against this relation. are we to be told we are interfering with this relation-"with the hashand's right of property in his wire's services?" This law is to protect this perb tly willing that Gov. Walker shall designed the personal rights of husband, nate hose to whom he referred, as, in his opinrelation; to protect the personal rights of husband, wite, and children that grow on of it. Has n man the same right to property in the services of his second wife, if his first intringe relation still exists, that a master has in his slave? Is she his wife at all, in legal signification? No, sir. Then the gentleman's argument talls to the ground. Instead of a man having property in two wives nt the same time, by committing b gamy or po lygamy, the State has property in his liberty, in his services as a telon, for the violation of this relation.

John Morrissev writes from London, on the 29th nlt., as follows:

On Wednesday I took a run down to New market to see Sivers at his training quarters. I arrived threat seven o'coock, and just as I had started from the station in a cab to rale to his house, I saw two men who also had just got out with me from mother. It was nearly dirk, and I could mot see the frees of the men, for their back was turned toward me, but there was something about the back of the head and reck of the while time hat made me recognize him at once. When they heard me hadroing to the driver to stop, they looked around, and as 1 g st ont, Sayers walked up to me, and putting out his hand, said: "This is Mr. Murissey, I believe." this power to legislate for the Territories does exist, with its constitutional I mitations, his been also med by the Supreme Court of the United States. I read from Howard's Reports, vol. 19. This decision was readered in the Dred Scott case, where this whole question was considered and determined. The court said:
